The National Association for Regulatory Administration Selects Management HQ as Association Management Partner

Minneapolis, Minn. – July 28, 2016 – The National Association for Regulatory Administration (NARA), an international association representing all human care licensing, has selected Management HQ to serve as its association management partner.

As of September 1, 2016, Management HQ will begin the transition to provide full-service association management services to NARA.

"NARA is enthusiastic to begin this partnership with Management HQ," said Tara Lynne Orlowski, President of NARA. "Management HQ was selected based on their ability to deliver high quality services, dedication to fiscal stewardship, and an understanding about the importance of partnership to influence change. The team at Management HQ is driven by values, which align with the mission of NARA and have experiences directly related to the human care regulation fields we serve. While they are a young association management company, the team brings over 35 years of experience and are eager to take NARA to the next level."

Management HQ will provide to NARA full-service association management services including a central office location and administration, fiscal management, membership development and retention, policy and advocacy services, contracting procurement and execution, governance support, events management, education services coordination, and marketing communications.

"Management HQ brings the background, experience and expertise that will assist NARA in achieving our goals in this next phase of our growth and development," says Jim Murphy, NARA President-Elect. "Together, NARA and Management HQ will further strengthen the foundation of our work, and continue to build a strong set of services and supports for the human care regulation field, benefitting our broad membership as well as the field as a whole. The NARA Board of Directors is extremely excited about this partnership and the bright future it promises."

"The Management HQ team is honored to have been selected to support NARA's incredibly important work," says Dara Rudick, Management HQ CEO. "NARA members and partners touch so many aspects of peoples' lives throughout our global community, especially serving the most vulnerable among us."
